5 month old feeding schedule: Timings and food types

Feeding Your 5-Month-Old Baby. At 5 months old, your baby may be taking four to six ounces of breast milk or formula at each feeding, or perhaps even more. She may need to eat more when she goes through a growth spurt, which can happen at any time; you may notice one when your baby turns about 6 months old. Whenever she seems hungry, follow her hunger cues and feed her on demand.

Guide By the end of their first week, most will need around 150 to 200ml per kilo of their weight a day until they're 6 months old. This amount will vary from baby to baby. Although most babies settle into a feeding pattern eventually, they vary in how often they want to feed and how much they want to drink.

Formula milk: common questions - NHS

To start with, your baby only needs a small amount of solid food, once a day, at a time that suits you both. You can start weaning with single vegetables and fruits – try blended, mashed, or soft cooked sticks of parsnip, broccoli, potato, yam, sweet potato, carrot, apple or pear. You could also try baby rice mixed with your baby's usual milk.

Your baby may also be able to recognise her teddy or toy after seeing only part of it. Soon she will understand that objects still exist even when she can't see, hear, or touch them (object permanence) (Ruffman et al 2005, Sheridan 2008). This skill will form the basis of many peekaboo games you'll be playing in the coming months.
